BY B.R. HAWKINS

The eighth annual red beans and rice cook-off serves up some of the best recipes around Monday, June 15 at 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. at Casino Magic's Entertainment Complex, Bay St. Louis.

Competitors in the cook-off, sponsored by Hancock Bank, the American Cancer Society and Camellia Beans, will compete for the People's Choice Award, The Golden Bean Award and bragging rights for a year as "best bean."

Approximately 40 teams representing restaurants, government agencies, area businesses and service organizations have entered the competition in support of the American Cancer Society.

"We have always looked at the Red Beans and Rice Festival as a fund raiser in which everyone, for $6, can participate," said festival volunteer Janet McQueen. "The small contribution is a deviation from the $100 golf tournaments or galas. The festival's wide appeal can be credited to the food and the fun."

McQueen said that the competitors are serious in their battle for the best beans. "they dress up, and the competition is as good natured as it comes."

In addition to sampling the wonderful bean recipes, visitors to the festival will have the opportunity to take part in a silent auction of items donated and gathered by supporters of the American Cancer Society.

Headlining this year's event is Joe Cahn, founder of the New Orleans School of Cooking. Cahn, who views the food of New Orleans as a vehicle to dispel the myths and misconceptions many visitors and locals alike hold of the Crescent City, began the school in 1980.

Chapman champions

Bay-Waveland Yacht Club captures Chapman trophy

BY BETSY GAGNET

It was three in a row last Sunday for the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club (BWYC) as it once again brought home the championship trophy in the Chapman Regatta.

The Regatta was the 49th annual team sailing competition between the yacht clubs on the Gulf coast. Held this year at Singing River Yacht Club, next year BWYC will host the event, which rotates between the two clubs.

The regatta consists of four races, with every club entering three boats per race.

"Team members can only skipper once, but can crew unlimited times," explained BWYC team captain Gilly Chamberlain. "So you have to have a lot of people."

Chamberlain had over 15 people on his team, with ages spanning six decades.

"I had a 10 year-old (Jackson Benvenuti) and a 66 year-old (Harry Chapman)," said Chamberlain.

Despite winning the championship, BWYC never finished first in any of the races, with second the best finish for the team.

The finishes of all three boats combine to give an overall score. The number of points a boat scores is equivalent to its finish (ie. first place receives one point, second two points, etc.). The team with the lowest overall score at the end of four races wins the regatta.

Since it is a team event, the strategy is different than in other regattas, Chamberlain explained.

Pearlington water, sewer selection under scrutiny

BY ED LEPOMA

One of three members remaining on the Pearlington Sewer and Water District has confirmed that the criminal investigation unit of the state police was given records of recent proceedings.

Kevin Hill told the Echo this week. "We have nothing to hide. We gave them everything they asked for." However, the Echo contacted M/Sgt. Ronnie Turan at the criminal investigative bureau offices in Gulfport, and Turan denied he was investigating anything about the Pearlington incident, which led to the recent resignation of Chairman Wayne Adkinson and Commissioner Betty Baxter.

Turan said the only thing he knew about it was what he saw on a television report about the resignations. Turan said he was in town last week investigating the armed robbery of a Pearlington title loan office, and not in connection with the Pearlington incident.

Adkinson, Baxter and Hill were a three-man team picked by the five-member Commission to research and investigate engineering firms which would be considered for the task of designing a sewer and water system for Pearlington, and would also help to go after federal and state funds to finance it.

The District, bankrolled with a $20,000 loan from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, was formed at the urging of citizens last January, and around February began soliciting proposals from engineers.

Originally, 10 engineering firms sent in proposals, and the committee whittled down the possibilities to five firms in April. Last May, the committee narrowed the search to two firms, and invited representatives of Southern Consultants, Inc., of Jackson, and Dennis Stieffel and Associates of D'Iberville to make oral presentations before the committee.

Father Pete celebrates silver anniversary

BY MIKE CUEVAS

Special to the Echo
Is there anyone in Bay St. Louis who doesn't know Father Pete Mockler?

Surely you have been to at least one wedding at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church where he officiated and made you laugh to break the tension of the occasion.

Surely you have seen him, with that shy Irish smile, motivating you to the plant booth at the annual OLG Crab Festival to take a chance on one of Mrs. Eunice McGinty's home-grown plants.

Surely you have heard him pray for inspiration and peace when the Mayor of Bay St. Louis began his third term in office. He's become a special person to Bay St. Louis, not to only the Catholic residents, but everyone.

Father Pete is generous and caring, just like he is supposed to be. Father Pete is mischievous, just like all the Irish are supposed to be. Father Peter Mockler celebrated his silver anniversary as a Roman Catholic priest June 10 at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. Parishioners and the city celebrate his choice of becoming a missionary priest to Mississippi Catholics.

Bay St. Louis has felt the presence of the Catholic Church since Father Buteaux came from France and established the local parish in the mid-1800's. Father Pete was pivotal in the 150th celebration held last summer to recognize the presence of Our Lady of the Gulf in the lives of citizens of Bay St. Louis.

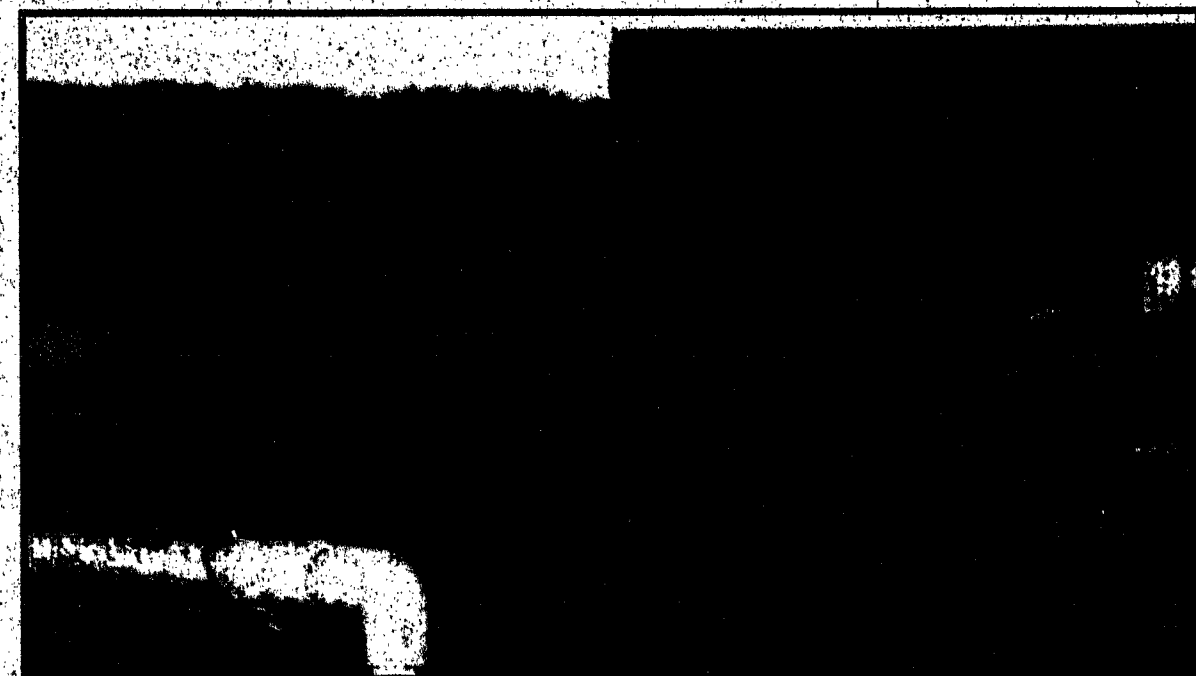

Father Pete Mockler

While three imposing buildings have housed the services of the parish since its beginning, Father Pete is the latest in a long line of priest who have given their lives to the service of their God and his children in Bay St. Louis.

He joined the missionaries of France, Germany, Ireland and other American locations, who have come to Mississippi to spread the good news of the Lord, becoming pastor in 1988.

Father Pete was the oldest of 12 children from a family where religion was the centerpiece of daily life, not just a Sunday adventure. In the many branches of his family are several priests who migrated to the United States, particularly Mississippi, to pursue their chosen work.

Shrimp bounty

The first of the season's shrimp began arriving off the big boats Thursday at Terry's Seafood in Bayou Caddy. Russell Mitchell of Kiln, skipper of the Miss Pamela, and his crew of three stayed out all of Wednesday night, and estimated the catch was between 1,500 and 1,800 pounds. "It's pretty fair," said Mitchell, of the current shrimping season. (Echo staff photo by Ed Lepoma)

Commission stands tough on changes in zoningBY B. R. HAWKINS

The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission denied requests for a change in zoning for a proposed art education center and a special exception for a snowball stand during their meeting Wednesday, June 10.

The commission denied a request from Doug and Vicki Niolet to change the zoning of property they own at 299 South Second Street from R-3, multi-family residential, to C1, central business district. The Nioletes also requested a variance for off-street parking requirements.

Commissioner Tommy Chapman, in making his motion to deny the zoning change, suggested that the project, along with revised drawings that show additional parking, be re-submitted as a special exception to the R-3 zoning.

"Please understand that at this time we are not objecting to the project," Chapman said. "We are objecting to a change in the zoning in this area."

The commission also denied a request from Juanita Thompson and Tanya Taylor for a special exception in the zoning ordinance to allow for a snowball stand, to be located at 634 Union Street. The area is zoned for residential use. The commission considered neighbors' objections to the proposed project because of congestion, safety issues and increase traffic flow.

Additionally, the commission approved variances for Anthony Trapani, Jr., to subdivide property he owns of Felicity Street and for Linda Sue Peterson for construction of garage at 31 Chantilly Terrace.

Property owner Ronald Robert received approval for a variance for a five foot set back on both his side and back yards for construction of a home and a garage at 808 South Beach Blvd.

The commission tabled a request from the Society of the Divine Word, Southern Province of St. Augustine for a zoning change from residential to commercial because the request had been advertised incorrectly. The property, located south of U.S. Highway 90 and east of Seminary Drive is currently zoned R-3, multi-family residential. The owners wish to have the property rezoned to C-3. It was advertised as a C-1 zoning change.

Actions taken by the commission will be presented to the Bay St. Louis City Council for final approval Tuesday, June 16.

Washington St. pier going out for bids

BY ED LEPOMA
Hancock County supervisors will put out to public bid Thursday plans to improve the boat launch at the Washington Street Pier and create two underwater jetties.

The project, which cleared its way through the courts after opposing beachfront property owners agreed to compromising on how the pier would be operated and patrolled, has been on the drawing books since before the current Board of Supervisors took office.

A public hearing has already been held by the Department of Marine Resources, but because of some design changes, county attorney Gerald Gex said another one might be required if new opposition surfaces.

In the meantime, the DMR and DEQ's Office of Pollution Control in Jackson is taking comments until 1 p.m. June 26 on the proposed project. Written comments should be addressed to:

The Department of Marine Resources, 1141 Bayview Avenue, Suite 101, Biloxi, MS 39530 or the Office of Pollution Control, P.O. Box 10385, Jackson, MS 39205.

Marty Dove, representing design architects Brown and Mitchell, told supervisors design plans were completed, and advised them to begin advertising the project June 18. He said that would allow bids to be open at a meeting of the board July 20.

Supervisors also sent a resolution to the Harrison County Industrial Seaway Development Board requesting 2,900 cubic yards of rip rap for the new jetty.

As proposed, the project would require the dredging of 2,157 cubic yards of material in order to construct the boat launch. Other structures to be built include a pier, 60 feet long by five feet wide, a boat ramp, 50 feet long and 29 feet wide; a rock jetty, 240 feet long and 28 feet wide and 12 mooring piles. In addition, the existing rip rap jetty will be realigned and extended to 225 feet long and 28 feet wide.

Last January, beachfront property owners agreed to a court settlement over the Washington Street project. Supervisors agreed to limit the use of the property to fishermen, to ban alcoholic beverages after 11 p.m. and to increase police patrols at the pier once the project is completed.

In other business, supervisors passed a resolution turning over to its newly created Regional Solid Waste Management Authority the future responsibility of amending the county's 20-year Solid Waste Plan.

Lucien Gex, the Authority's attorney, made the suggestion at the request of three pit owners in the Kiln, who are trying to get permission from DEQ to begin accepting construction debris and other rubbish.

At the request of the petitioners, Gex will also try to get them some kind of temporary permit to begin operating, because the pits have been closed by DEQ since last October.

At the request of District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman, the Board voted 3-1 to allow Joseph Pansano to begin construction of his house in the Belle Isle Subdivision of Pearlinton, if he installs sewerage treatment system recommended by the county Health Department. If he chooses an alternate system, Pansano would have to come back before the board.

District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward voted against the motion, and Board President Philip Moran was absent at Thursday's recess meeting. The next recess meeting is scheduled at 9 a.m. June 29.

Officials discuss animal shelter

BY ED LEPOMA
City and county officials have agreed to look into the NASA buffer zone for land to build a new and larger animal shelter.

That's about all that was agreed upon Wednesday when Bay St. Louis and Waveland officials sat down with four of the county's supervisors to discuss other possible joint ventures. Some 10 months ago, Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson urged supervisors to help find the land and fund a larger animal shelter to replace the inadequate one now at Gulf-side Street in Waveland.

Currently, the county contributes $46,000 and an animal control officer for shelter operations, while Waveland provides the building and some employees plus $16,000, and Bay St. Louis chips in $18,000 a year and pays the salary of an animal patrol officer. Each entity's contribution is based on the number of animals picked up, and surveys show most are coming from unincorporated areas of the county.

At Wednesday's meeting, District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour said he knew of 40 acre site that is available off Texas Flat Road, near McLeod Park. Seymour said water has recently been extended to the site, and there is access to power.

The land is located in the buffer zone surrounding the giant Stennis Space Center, and District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman was asked to see if he could get NASA approval to locate a shelter there. Presently, no one is allowed to live in the buffer zone, but the shelter would not be manned on a 24-hour basis and no one would be living on the site, so NASA might make an exception.

Pullman also asked other officials present to think about how they might finance a new shelter. "Where's the money going to come from? Is it going to be a bond or do we have enough capital on hand?"

Estimates are a new shelter could cost as much as $150,000.

Also on the agenda, was a plan to discuss the possibility of the two cities and the county filing a joint application for future Tidelands funding.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Everyone needs to remember the 8th annual Red Beans and Rice Cookoff set for Monday, June 15, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Casino Magic Entertainment Complex.

The big event is for the benefit of the American Cancer Society, and Chuck (Red Bean) Breath, is once again general chairman.

An added feature this year will be that special guest, Chef "Cajun" Joe Cahn, creator of the New Orleans School of Cooking, is scheduled to be on hand.

It appears there will be some 38 groups vying for cooking the best red beans and rice. Competitors will be in three divisions, restaurants, government service and businesses trying to provide the best cooked beans. There are even a few individuals who can cook, as the saying goes, a "real mean" pot of beans and rice. As usual, there will be several awards.

The defenders of titles from last year will include, the Bay St. Louis Knights of Columbus, Golden Bean Award; City of Bay St. Louis, Peoples Choice Award for governmental agencies; Diamondhead Supermarket, Peoples Choice Award for business, and Best Dessert Award went to Martha Peters and Diamondhead Supermarket; Trapani's Eatery received the Peoples Choice Award for restaurants; Buccola Real Estate received the Judges Award for business; Carole's Olde Town was honored with the Judges Award for restaurants; and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors received the Showmanship and the Judges Choice Awards for government.

I am sure the above were top winners last year and will 'all be in there defending their titles.

The Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) members are all geared up once again to assist with the Red Beans & Rice Cookoff.

We are all winners from this big event, as all proceeds go to the American Cancer Society.

If you have never attended a Red Beans & Rice Cookoff, you do not know what you are missing.

Apparently there are hundreds of ways to prepare red beans and rice. There are so many (secret) recipes.

Entry fee is only $6 per person, and you get to eat as many red beans & rice as you want.

The benefit is sponsored in part by Casino Magic, the American Heart Association, Hancock Bank and L.H. Hayward Company, supplier of Camellia brand red beans.

Tickets are available at any Hancock Bank Branch or at the door.

This will be the first year for the cookoff to be held in Casino Magic's new Entertainment Complex. Last year it was held in the Magic Dome.

The Magic Entertainment Complex has lots of room, and Casino Magic's Chef Glenn Adams will be working with the competitors towards having everything ready to go at 11 a.m. Monday.

There should be a lot of Camellia red beans cooking this weekend.

I am looking forward to being at the cookoff on Monday, and I hope to see you, too.

The bill affects such I.D. cards and numbers as Social Security, credit cards and debit cards. Present at the bill-signing ceremony were, from left, Rep. Jamie Franks of Mooreville; Rep. Tommy Reynolds of Charleston; Rep. Dedaux; Jesse Martin of the American Association of Retired People; Spence Dye of the Mississippi Retail Merchants Association; Rep. FROM THE GOVERNOR

By Governor Kirk Fordice

Adolescence: is this time for motherhood?

During the last 30 years, the Mississippi has consistently led the nation in the percentage of births to teens. In 1996, more than 21 percent of babies born in Mississippi were born to teenagers — with 80 percent of those being born out of wedlock.

About 45 percent of all babies born in Mississippi during 1996 were born to unmarried mothers. Studies have shown that women who gave birth as teenagers and unmarried adults fared the worst economically among all women ages 25-40.

In 1990, among Mississippi families headed by single mothers, 61 percent lived in poverty. Obviously, fathers are not taking responsibility for their children.

In addition, one study found that men 20 years and older fathered two-thirds of the babies born to girls 14 and younger. These problems must be addressed if we are to continue as a viable civilization.

I am also pleased to recognize and commend the "Just Wait" Abstinence Unit within the Mississippi Department of Human Services and the other dedicated organizations and churches that have implemented activities to reduce the incidence and devastation of teen pregnancy.

Young adolescence should be a time for education and skill-building — not for unmarried parenthood. We must continue our efforts to prevent unmarried teen pregnancies — thereby protecting the future of young Mississippians. I signed into law the welfare reform legislation enacted in 1997, which created the Mississippi Task Force on Reducing Out-of-Wedlock Pregnancies to review the incidence and circumstances of out-of-wedlock births in Mississippi.

The task force serves to make recommendations to the legislative and executive branches of government, placing special emphasis on adolescents. The task force also seeks to reverse the trend of adult out-of-wedlock births.

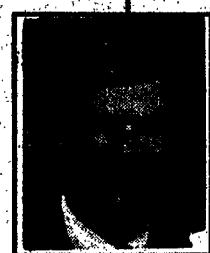

One task force recommendation was to increase the "age of consent" from age 14 to 16, which I signed into law during the 1998 Session. The task force has also recommended that the state establish abstinence education in public schools, which I also signed into law in 1998.

Recent studies suggest that we have made progress, but the fact that Mississippi continues to have the highest teen-birth rate among the 50 states is categorically a cause for alarm.

In the words of United States Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich:

"No society can survive, no civilization can survive, with 12-year-olds having babies, with 15-year-olds killing each other, with 17-year-olds dying of AIDS, with 18-year-olds getting diplomas they can't read."

The United States of America has reached a crisis point. If we do not restore the traditional family unit that has been the cornerstone of American survival, strength and success, we shall become a mere shadow of all we might have been.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

The case for missile defense

America cannot realistically stop the spread of nuclear and chemical weapons to unstable third-world regimes. However, we have the ability, and constitutional mandate, to make these relatively old technologies virtually obsolete.

Statistics imply that some Americans believe the United States is immune to missile attack because we have some secret missile defense lurking in the Earth's orbit.

This belief is simply the product of very active imaginations fed on a steady diet of far-out government conspiracy theories. The truth is, America has been reluctant to take the necessary step in military development.

We demonstrated an ability to protect our citizens from missile attack a decade ago, but we failed to act. Some in Washington made fun of the space-based proposal, but when the Soviet military realized it had neither the resources or technology to even consider taking this next step, Moscow took note. The Cold War began to thaw.

Today in Washington, no one is laughing at missile defense as countries with much less discipline than the Soviets acquire devastating weapons. This month, India, which has already tested ballistic missiles, detonated nuclear devices which could lead to a regional nuclear arms race between India, Pakistan and China.

Speaking of China, this communist country now has 13 nuclear missiles, which are pointed at the U.S., and capable of destroying American cities.

Finally, who knows what Iraq is working on, but it is safe to assume the demented Saddam Hussein will eventually have a nuclear missile capability to complement his chemical and biological weapons stockpile.

The nuclear club will continue to grow because it is not hard to join. Nuclear and chemical weapons, along with the missiles that deliver them, are nothing new. The proliferation of military technology is not unlike that of household products.

Like VCRs, CD players, fax machines and computers, everybody on the block eventually gets one. America must stay ahead in this deadly struggle to defend our territory and citizens.

Senator Thad Cochran, my Mississippi colleague in the Senate, has introduced a bill expressing America's intent to build and deploy a missile defense system. This bill does not specify what type of system, or when it will be deployed. It simply states that, given existing threats, America should begin to aggressively pursue a missile defense.

As always, there will be opposition from naive people who refuse to acknowledge that humanity is still capable of evil. They realize that America will eventually have to construct a missile defense, but they seem to think that, despite the horrible conflicts of this century, everything is just going to be OK for now. They want to put a price on your security.

However, I believe we should be prepared to meet the challenges of the future, not wait until one of these challenges explodes on our soil.

Our founding fathers made "providing for the common defense" a fundamental duty of the federal government. We have experienced times in our history where we have sadly ignored this duty at our own peril, eventually paying the price of freedom in blood, not dollars.

Mississippians could play a major role in the development of a future missile defense. A system of space-based lasers has been proposed to provide a missile defense umbrella above our nation.

This system would destroy missiles in the first stages of boost, thus forcing them to fall on the very people who launch them.

Stennis Space Center is being considered as a construction site for this system. Stennis has a long history of manufacturing for the space program, and I believe the men and women of this center are ready for the task.

It is time for America to apply its space expertise toward protecting its citizens. By going forth with missile defense now, we can ensure that the weapons which terrify us today, will be left useless in the museums of tomorrow.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Life is a waking up process

"It gets better only when it's almost over."

George, our handyman/carpenter was referring to his repositioning of some of the thick, heavy studs on the second floor of our 139-year-old school building. Just when he was getting the hang of it, the job was coming to an end.

We humans progress by trial and error, learning from mistakes, listening to, observing and imitating masters of the trade, and persevering in our efforts through thick and thin.

Unless we appreciate the sheer irony of really getting good at what we do only when we have run much of our course. We easily fall prey to discouragement. An anomaly like Tiger Woods is just another reminder that we need time to mature.

It's no accident that no very young pilots, but only seasoned pilots are chosen to be astronauts. To the young, we concede the blessings of lightning reflexes, clear eyesight and an unbridled hunger for new horizons and new adventures.

By contrast, to the more mature we allow the comforting and enabling blessing of settled nerves, the intangible but immeasurable advantages of experience, the far greater security of discipline, and the clarity of long-term dreams.

George's experience and comment summarize what all of us go through in our vocation, profession and pursuit of life. Save for a rare Bill Gates, "Youth is wasted on the young" dogs us through our early years of pilgrimage down here.

Sports would seem to be the exception to this universal law, since dominance in athletics is maintained by the very young.

Au contraire, sports is one of the most convincing cases of all, providing clearly the value of experience.

Do you think it's coincidental that hardly any coach ever comes from the ranks of still-active players? Active players are still maturing in the mental aspects of their sport. It gets better only when their physical prowess is in decline.

Just ask 35-year-old Michael Jordan who assures us his game is much better now, though some of his youthful athleticism is no longer with him. His intelligence has integrated the best of his superior physique, reflexes and coordination.

Talk to Tony Gwynn, whose batting skills and average are, unbelievably, on the upswing, even while his tendons and muscles are becoming more susceptible to injury. Tony's and Michael's odyssey speaks equally for youth and maturity.

The rise and fall of athletes who go to the pinnacle of their craft is usually rapid, especially in certain sports such as golf, boxing and track and field. "Thus passes the glory of the world," is painfully patent every moment here.

Emmitt Smith, famed running back of the Dallas Cowboys, can tell you all about it. For a few years, he ran roughshod over all defenders, even seeming to threaten rushing records, until injuries slowed him. It got best only when almost over.

However, race car drivers have a way of maturing with a few years under their belt, and of staying near the top long after youth has left them far behind. Again, settled nerves and integrated experience carry them to the checkered flag.

Experienced attorneys, surgeons, builders and workers in every critical profession, who have fought many battles in the trenches, are hired for the biggest, toughest jobs.

With God's grace, we can all help each other be our best.

8A-THE SEA COAST ECHO-SUNDAY, JUNE 14, 1998

Nike Tour comes back to Coast

The Nike Tour professionals will test the Oaks Golf Club on the Mississippi Gulf Coast in February 1999. Official word of the Nike Tour's return came from the PGA Tour through a call from Dale Antram, vice president of business affairs of the Nike Tour.

The announcement was made to Gulf Coast Tournament officials Keith Voigts, senior vice president for Halter Marine Group Inc., Joel Gann, project director of the Oaks Golf Club; Larry Bates, Harrison County Tourism commissioner; Michael Olivier, Harrison County Development Commission executive director; and Scott Ratcliff, golf consultant on the project.

Halter Marine Group Charitable Foundation Inc. and the PGA Tour will enter into an agreement for the Nike Tour tournament, benefiting the Boys and Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast. This two-year commitment, with the option beyond 2000, will also be made by the Oaks Golf Club in Pass Christian. Project Director Joel Gann believes this will continue a relationship with the PGA Tour for years to come.

Tournament officials states that an exact date for the tournament does not exist at this time, but assured that a late February scheduling was preferred due to possibility of television coverage on the Golf Channel.

"If there is a chance of live coverage of the tournament and an opportunity to highlight the Mississippi Gulf Coast to the country, it meets our mission statement to show one of the fastest growing travel destinations," said Larry Bates of the Harrison County Tourism Commission.

"The quality of this upcoming event is what will carry us to a new level with tournament golf on the Coast," said Keith Voigts from Halter Marine. "When Scott Ratcliff approached us to be the presenting sponsor, we were already committed to the Boys and Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast. He showed us how a Nike Tour tournament here could have an atmosphere that the whole family could enjoy, along with the whole community, while still making a considerable contribution to the Boys and Girls Clubs. Our confidence in his ability to bring together a Tour-quality event is only exceeded by our excitement of the upcoming tournament."

Ratcliff said, "This tournament will be a great time for everyone. The schedule of events includes a Million Dollar Hole-in-One Contest, a coaches' junior clinic by golf coaches from colleges in the South on the Sunday prior to tournament week, a clinic during the tournament week by three of the top 100 teaching professionals in the world, Pro-Am spots that will be given through area promotions and skybox seating available to corporate and individual guests along with numerous events within the event."

Michael Olivier was pleased with the level of commitment thus far by community leaders and the return of the Mississippi Gulf Coast to the Nike Tour's schedule.

"With the return of this tournament we have the opportunity to showcase our commitment to a great charity, while establishing our commitment level to the PGA Tour for the future."

"We would also like to thank each of the sponsors that were a part of our initial presentation to the PGA Tour April 6, including the Gulf Coast Economic Development Council, Harrison County Tourism Commission, Mississippi Tourism Commission, Allen Beverage, Grand Casino and WLOX-TV. Our proposal was one of several considered by the PGA Tour for the 1999 schedule. Considering this, we can only thank the sponsors that stepped to the forefront to give us the beginning of what will become one of the Nike Tour's elite golfing events."

With Nike Tour graduates like David Duval, Tom Lehman, Ernie Els and John Daly and others dominating PGA Tour leaderboards, recognition of the Nike Tour as a very strong proving ground for professionals is quickly being established.

The stroke average between the PGA Tour and the Nike Tour is only one-half a stroke difference this year and Nike Tour players have two 59's carded this year. "The fact is these guys can golf their ball," said Ratcliff.

The return of the Nike Tour is another indication of the strong development for golf on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Sea Wolves sign Rochon

The Mississippi Sea Wolves professional hockey team announce the re-signing of Defenseman Patrick Rochon.

Rochon, who last season was voted by Sea Wolves fans as Defenseman of the Year, has re-signed through the 1998-99 season.

This past season Rochon played 68 of 70 games for the Sea Wolves and posted 10 goals and 30 assists for 40 points and had 74 penalty minutes. He also led all Sea Wolves defensemen in scoring and had the team's best plus/minus rating at +17.

Head Coach Bruce Boudreaux commented that, "We started off by signing Troy Mann, who is a very offensive forward, and now we have countered by signing our best young defenseman. Patrick is a colorful defenseman and is popular here on the Coast because of his playing style and his love of the people here. He is a winner, and this team will have an advantage next season because we only want to surround ourselves with winners. Signing Patrick is a great starting point to build a solid defensive core."

The Sea Wolves open the 1998-99 campaign with six straight games at home starting with Mobile, Oct. 15 at 7:35 p.m. at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, JUNE 14, 1998-9A

Grand to host Tuesday night bout

On Tuesday, June 16, Grand Casino Biloxi and Cedric Kushner Promotions Inc. will present an evening of live boxing at the Biloxi Grand Theatre. The main event will feature super featherweights Angel 'El Diablo' Manfredy fighting Reyes Munoz in 10 rounds. USA Network will televise the fights.

Manfredy (23-2-1, 18 KO's), Gary, Ind., is the current WBU Super Featherweight Champion and is coming off his most spectacular victory to date — a seventh round stop against Arturo Gatti in January. An amateur fighter, Manfredy turned professional at the age of 18, making his pro debut in 1993 against Charles McClellan. His first fight was his hardest as it was the only time Manfredy was ever knocked out.

Reyes Munoz (20-3-0, 9 KO's), Ponce, Puerto Rico native, was introduced to boxing at the age of 12 by his two brothers. After a brief amateur career, Munoz turned professional in 1989 with a first-round knockout of Manny Bruno. Munoz has an "in your face" style that has helped build his impressive record.

The co-feature event of the night will be in the Heavyweight division with Hasim Rahman (20-0-0, 23 KO's), Baltimore, Md., against Carlos Monroe, Los Angeles, Calif. (11-6-0, 7 KO's). They are scheduled to fight 10 rounds.

Others on the undercard are Gilberto Brown (11-0-2, 8 KO's) taking on David Rabon (11-2-0, 8 KO's), Lafayette, La. They will fight 8 rounds in the Light Heavyweight division. All full undercard will be featured.

Tickets are on sale at the Biloxi Grand Theatre Box Office (1-800-WIN-2-WIN) and all TicketMaster locations. Doors open at 6 p.m.; first bout is scheduled at 7 p.m.

Tennis anyone?

Recently the USTA (United States Tennis Association) visited Bay Catholic Elementary to teach students the importance of physical fitness and give some tennis tips. Everyone who participated enjoyed the visit which was arranged by P. E. Instructor Debbie Williams. Shown (l-r) are students Laura Kergosien, Ryan Stechmann, Jason Lewis, Ryan Oliver, Katherine Guichet and Chelsea Bradford.

Miller wins at Sun Coast

Although Saturday afternoon and evening weather conditions made racing look very doubtful, with a constant threat of rain, the show did go on. Although this did attribute to the spectator and car count being down there were still some hotly contested races.

Bruce Blaker of Long Beach and Michael Miller of Biloxi shared the front row for the Mini-Sprint feature. Miller moved to the front on the green flag lap and never looked back as the 15 year old won his first ever feature race.

Blaker ran second until mechanical problems retired his car to the pits. Roland Langley moved into the second spot followed by Rick Barregarye and Billy Beam.

This was the order in which they crossed the finish line. Neal Gatlin rounded out the top five finishers. Barregarye and Keith Gonzales were both earlier heat race winners.

Street Stock driver Rodney Barber established a new qualifying lap of 17:87 giving him the pole starting spot for the feature race. Bubba Trotter shared the front row with Barber for the start but was unable to hold off Roger Lacoste for the second spot. Lacoste lost a rear wheel ending his racing for the night and giving a second spot over to Trotter.

David Hough finished third over Steve Marsh and Wesley Fletcher as they crossed the finish line. What appeared to be another win for Barber was lost at the tech area when he failed to pull vacuum and was disqualified. This moved the finishing up one spot giving Trotter credit for the win. Danny Lee was heat race winner.

Billy Joe Schonewitz won both heat and feature races in a light field of Pro Stocks. Rodney Bruce finished second over Jeremy Broadus and Jerry Winstead.

Greg Galbreath won his second feature of the season after the IMCA feature saw numerous position changes. Donald Parker worked his way into second only to spin in turn one.

Heat winner Chuckie Smith, ranked third nationally, also worked through the field to claim the second spot only to be charged with a caution and a trip to the rear.

Kalif Sellier, also a heat race winner, made a steady move toward the front and found himself in second as the checkers flew. Smith was able to battle back to third as they crossed the finish line.

Rickey Hankins and heat race winner Keith Miller shared the front row for the Late Model feature. Hankins came out of turn two in the lead followed by Miller, Ryan Plaisance and Billy Joe Schonewitz. Miller found an opening under Hankins in the early going and held the lead for a couple of laps. Hankins was able to reclaim the lead by driving past Miller as they exited turn two.

Hankins held a comfortable lead for the remainder of the race with Miller holding a wide margin over the battle for the third spot. Plaisance held off a hard charging Schonewitz to finish in the third spot.

Jason Beauchamp picked up his fourth Rookie feature win along with the heat race in a light field of cars.

The Cajun Sprints will be on hand next Saturday night, along with a Late Model tune-up race for the Ricks Furniture series race scheduled for June 20.

Sponsorship fees are $35 to receive both a sponsor flag and a boat flag and $100 to receive a judge's position, a boat flag and a shirt.

"The Boaters' Rendezvous has become increasingly popular since our first Ship Island celebration five years ago," Holmes said. "Thousands of Coast residents and visitors annually attend this event that is made possible by hundreds of sponsors each year."

The National Park Service will receive all net rendezvous proceeds that will be used toward the enhancement of Ship Island.

County to receive $88,026

Mississippi Insurance Commissioner George Dale announced the distribution of a $88,026 award to Hancock County for improvements in firefighting equipment and training. This year, during which $5.9 million will be distributed to qualifying counties, marks the 25th anniversary of the distribution of state fire funds to counties.

State fire funds, which are derived from the 3 percent premium tax levied on all insurance products sold in Mississippi, must be spent for capital improvements, equipment and training for fire departments in order to receive the funds, counties and their fire service providers must meet certain reporting requirements and have county arson investigators and county fire coordinators in place.

Hancock County's fire coordinator, Richard Pate, is responsible for seeing that the necessary requirements are met.

These funds, while critical, actually represent about a third of what is needed in order to adequately support rural fire protection," Dale said. "The balance of the monies needed to fully fund a rural fire department must come from ad valorem taxes levied by the county as well as from private donations, including voluntary contributions offered through water and electrical utilities in some parts of the state."

Dale has called for greater funding for rural fire protection throughout his six terms as Mississippi's Insurance Commissioner. "Many Mississippians have given generously of their time and money to the worthwhile cause of rural fire protection," he said.

Throughout his tenure, Dale has sought to lower Mississippians' insurance premiums by meeting the requirements for improved insurance ratings in rural areas. Dale pointed out that while a rural fire department typically has minimum operating needs of $15,000 per year, the average rural fire department in Mississippi only receives half that.

"Right now, the state is putting up $4.80 for every Mississippian living outside a municipality," Dale said. "In order to have reliable fire protection, you need to be able to spend somewhere in the neighborhood of $12 to $15 per person per year."

In addition to the 5.9 million distributed among qualifying counties, an equal amount is distributed among qualifying municipalities. State lawmakers first authorized municipal fire funds in 1971. The Mississippi Insurance Department was assigned responsibility for the state fire fund program in 1988.

National Center for Responsible Gaming to lead discussion on genetics

Is there a genetic link to compulsive gambling? The National Center for Responsible Gaming will lead an important discussion on genetics research next week at the 12th National Conference on Problem Gambling in Las Vegas, Nev.

Christine Reilly, executive director of the National Center for Responsible Gaming (NCRG), will moderate the panel discussion, "The Genetics of Problem Gambling."

Joining Reilly on the panel will be David E. Comings, MD, director of the Department of Medical Genetics at the City of Hope National Medical Center, and Dr. Ken Winters, PhD, director of the Center for Adolescent Substance Abuse and Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Senior Research Associate in Psychiatry at the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Comings will speak on "The Genetics of Pathological Gambling: The Addictive Effect of Multiple Genes." The topic of Dr. Winters' address is "A Twin Study of Correlates of Gambling and Related Impulse Disorders."

The NCRG was founded in 1996 to support scientific research on pathological gambling, one of the least understood addictions. To date, the NCRG has funded 11 research projects.

"We are very excited about the opportunity to present cutting-edge research funded by the NCRG," said Reilly. "Genetics will help explain the neurobiological basis for problem gambling and lead to improved prevention and treatment programs."

For example, identifying biological markers for the disorder will give us a way to independently validate the instruments now being used to diagnose problem gambling."

Dr. Comings is the principal investigator of the NCRG-funded project, "The Molecular Genetics of Pathological Gambling." Dr. Comings has authored over 350 papers on genetics and more than 60 publications on diagnosis, treatment and genetics of ADD, Tourette Syndrome and pathological gambling.

His many roles of national leadership in medical genetics include a term as President of the American Society of Human Genetics and eight years as editor of the American Journal of Human Genetics.

Dr. Winters is currently directing "Youth Gambling: Transition from Adolescence to Young Adulthood," a research project supported by the NCRG. He is nationally recognized for his work on adolescent drug abuse, root causes of addiction, and pathological gambling.

Dr. Winters is currently working on project funded by the National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA), the Walker Foundation, and the Center for Substance Abuse Prevention. He is a member of the Committee on the Social and Economic Impact of Pathological Gambling convened by the National Research Council.

The NCRG, a tax-exempt, nonprofit organization, receives support from the Lincy Foundation, Boyd Gaming Corporation, Station Casinos, Caesar's World, Circus Circus Enterprise, Grand Casinos, Hilton Hotels Corporation, International Game Technology, Mirage Resorts and other gaming entertainment companies.

The 12th National Conference on Problem Gambling will be held at the Alexis Park Resort June 18-20 and is sponsored by the National Council on Problem Gambling and the Nevada Council on Problem Gambling.

"The Genetics of Problem Gambling" panel will present from 3:15-4:45 p.m. Thursday, June 18 in the Parthenon Conference Center. The Alexis Park Resort is located at 375 East Harmon Avenue, Las Vegas.

SBA streamlines "504" program

U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) Administrator Aida Alvarez has announced steps to streamline the SBA's "504" Loan Program and simplify the loan approval process by expanding the Premier Certified Lender Program (PCLP). Administrator Alvarez said that SBA would extend eligibility for PCLP status to all Certified Development Companies (CDCs) after a 30-month pilot that tested the idea with 13 CDCs. CDCs are community-based nonprofit corporations that work with SBA and private sector lenders to provide long-term fixed asset financing to small businesses.

"This step will help us increase small businesses' access to capital by streamlining our loan programs," Alvarez said. "It continued our efforts to strengthen and improve our loan programs and make them more customer-friendly."

The pilot has shown us that this approach speeds up the loan process and gives local decision-makers more authority and control over what is happening in their own communities. It also increases the flow of capital to small businesses that are creating jobs and contributing to the continuing expansion of the national economy."

The changes, drafted in accordance with legislation adopted last December, were published last week in the Federal Register as an interim final rule. The rule makes all 280 Certified Development Companies participating in the SBA's 504 loan program eligible to apply for PCLP status.

The program provides small businesses with long-term fixed-rate financing for major fixed assets, such as land, buildings and machinery and equipment. Typically, a 504 project combines a loan from a commercial lender covering up to 50 percent of the project cost, a contribution by the borrower of at least 10 percent, and a loan funded through the sale of 100 percent SBA-backed securities for the remaining amount.

Under the interim final rule published last week, PCLPs will agree to share the risks of loan-making in exchange for the SBA delegating authority to the lender for authorizing, closing and servicing loans. SBA's involvement in the process will be limited to making an eligibility determination.

The program is modeled on the SBA's successful Preferred Lender Program for 7(a) general business loans, which now accounts for a third of all SBA-guaranteed loans.

A CDC that wants to become a PCLP must establish loss reserves in the amount of historic loss rates or 10 percent of exposure, whichever is greater, and be evaluated on the quality of its past loan performance.

Loans approved under the PCLP program will be subject to the same terms and conditions as other 504 loans. In recent months, the 13 CDCs participating in the PCLP pilot program — established in October 1995 — have made more than five percent of the 504 loans approved by SBA during that period. The entire 504 program produced 4,180 loans amounting to more than $1.44 billion in FY 1997.

Also last week, the SBA proposed for comment a second package of regulations affecting the 504 loan program. Published in the Federal Register May 5, the regulations are largely technical in nature.

The comment period for these proposed rules extends until July 6. The proposed rule changes would:

- Permit two or more small businesses to borrow together to finance a single fixed asset project.

- Allow small business borrowers in the program to finance CDC attorney's fees related to a 504 debenture closing, up to a maximum of $2,500.

- Permit SBA to provide financing to a borrower who will be a passive owner of a property that will be occupied by two or more unrelated small businesses.

The interim final rule on PCLPs and the proposed rules on technical changes to the 504 program can be found on the Federal Register Online internet site via GPA Access at www.access.gpo.gov/su_docs/.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, JUNE 14, 1998-11A

Stennis technology transfer office to hold technology briefings June 23 & 24

The Technology Transfer Office at Stennis Space Center will host a technology commercialization briefing at 8 a.m. Tuesday, June 23, and a dual-use technology development briefing at 8 a.m. Wednesday, June 24, both at Stennis Space Center.

NASA is seeking qualified companies to help further develop two NASA technologies that can detect when plants are under stress before the damage becomes visible to the human eye. During the briefings, detailed information on NASA's development requirements will be provided to interested companies.

Plant stress is the reaction of plants to environmental conditions that are unfavorable to growth, such as lack of sufficient nutrients, inadequate watering, disease or insect infestation. Detecting plant stress in the early stages provides an opportunity to reverse the unsuitable conditions that inhibit plant growth.

Also, monitoring plant stress can help prevent overuse of fertilizers and other chemicals while reducing groundwater contamination. The reaction most people are familiar with is a change in leaf color.

Research by Stennis scientists has found that, in many cases, previsible signs of stress can be detected using the proper instruments.

Two technologies have been developed to detect previsible plant stress. The first device, known as the Hand-Held Plant Stress Monitor, is available for exclusive or non-exclusive license to U.S. companies. The monitor measures plant health by determining the chlorophyll content of leaves.

The second device available for joint development between NASA and a commercial partner, is a portable video imager. The video imager determines plant health by measuring the reflected light of leaves to determine their chlorophyll content. This gives the user an easy-to-read indication of the condition of the plant.

Both devices can be used in such industries and disciplines as agriculture, precision farming, horticulture, plant research, forestry, paper companies, lawn care specialists and government agencies.

University, government and industrial laboratories could also benefit from use of the device by researching how nutrition, biological influences, herbicides and other influences affect leaf chlorophyll content.

Researchers at Stennis Space Center have constructed a prototype of each device and filed patent applications.

Commercialization opportunities may exist through licensing, cooperative development and technical consulting. Companies participating in the briefings, which will be held at Stennis Space Center, will also receive information on the process that they need to follow to establish partnership agreements and/or licenses for commercialization of the device. Registration of companies wishing to participate in the briefings is required by noon Friday, June 19.

Representatives of Mississippi companies wishing to attend the briefings should contact Joe Graben with the Southern Technology application Center at 228-688-2280.

Louisiana company representatives interested in attending should contact Andy Bush with the Louisiana Technology Transfer Office at (504) 334-5555.

Representatives from companies outside of Mississippi and Louisiana who are interested in attending should contact Mark Obenshain with the Research Triangle Institute at (919) 541-7425.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Settling a dispute with your broker

Most investment representatives are reputable people who work hard to help their clients succeed financially. The vast majority of investors have good relationships with their financial professionals.

Occasionally, however, investors have a dispute with a broker or financial professional. Some people in this situation file lawsuits. However, lawsuits can be a very expensive and harrowing ordeal. It's reported that more than 14.5 million civil lawsuits are filed annually, and the typical case takes three to four years to get to trial.

Fortunately, investors with legitimate arguments have another option, called alternate dispute resolution (ADR). ADR can be a two-step process. First, mediation is attempted. If unsuccessful, mediation may be followed by binding arbitration.

In mediation, both parties cooperate to solve the problem. A lawyer is not needed. However, the mediator — a person specially trained in dispute resolution — is often a lawyer, possibly a former judge. In securities cases, the mediator is generally familiar with securities law.

The mediator typically meets privately with each party to discuss the case and possible solutions.

Approximately 85 percent of mediated disputes conclude in voluntary settlements. In the small percentage of cases where mediation fails, it is usually suggested both parties go to binding arbitration.

Arbitration is a method of having arbitrators (impartial persons who are knowledgeable in the areas of dispute) dictate a resolution. According to the Security Industry Conference on Arbitration (SICA), arbitration has long been used as an alternative to the courts because it is a prompt and inexpensive means of resolving complicated securities issues.

Unlike mediation, "an arbitrator award is final and binding." It is subject to review by a court only on a very limited basis," says the SICA. After arbitration has been selected, the parties generally give up their right to pursue the matter through the courts.

Yet arbitration is much simpler than a court trial. Rules of evidence, witnesses and testimony are relaxed. The arbitrators (typically three, representing the legal profession, the securities industry and the public) are more interested in hearing the entire story and reaching a fair decision than in getting mired in every detail. With arbitration, both parties can — and typically do — use lawyers, but the legal fee is usually only a fraction of what it would be for a court case.

A variety of organizations sponsor arbitration, including the national and regional stock exchanges. The Rulemaking Board and the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD).

The vast majority of securities disputes are solved by simple, open dialogues with your broker. If an error has been made, a legitimate firm will be anxious to rectify it. But if this doesn't work, consider ADR before jumping into a lengthy and expensive law

Sewer — Under scrutiny

At a meeting of the District on May 27, Adkinson and Baxter recommended hiring the firm of SCI over Stieffel, and put the motion before the five-member Commission. The motion died on a 2-3 vote, then Hill moved to hire Stieffel, and got the support of Commissioners Patricia St. Clair, and Rosa Jackson.

Adkinson and Baxter immediately resigned, but Hill told the Echo there was no pressure exerted by him or anyone to select Stieffel over SCI.

"I don't know him (President Dennis Stieffel) from Adam," said Hill. He said the three members who voted for Stieffel thought his firm could design a system that would ultimately cost customers $35 or less a month.

Hill also pointed out that the District has no funds yet to hire a design engineer, and those fees would be paid on a sliding scale based on the amount of grant monies the District would land and what agencies the money comes from.

The engineering fees could vary from a low of $306,000 to a high of $900,000 depending on the funding sources, and depending on the amount that is borrowed.

Estimates are a water and sewer system for Pearlington could cost as low as $6 million and as much as $8 million.

Adkinson and Baxter said they selected SCI based on its experience and its track record of landing federal and state grants, and at least one consultant the committee brought in during the engineer search seemed to agree.

The Echo obtained a copy of a letter written May 21 to Pearlington Water and Sewer District Commissioners from Tom Johnson, operations management specialist with the state's Rural Community Assistance Program, one of the agencies where an engineering firm might go for funding the project.

"If I had to pick an engineer, I would select Southern Consultants, Inc.," Jordan said.

He said his reasons for selecting the firm were: Southern Consultants has the most experience in water and sewer projects, 74 compared to five by Stieffel; Southern Consultants has been in business 34 years, compared to five years for Stieffel; Southern Consultants has more experience with federal contracts and loans, 72 compared to four by Stieffel; and Southern Consultants is located in Jackson "and are well known by the Department of Health; the Rural Utility Service, and CRDG personnel."

Contacted at his Iberville office, Dennis Stieffel said he "would not dignify" the feud between the present and departed Commissioners "by commenting on the matter."

Following the vote, on June 6, Robert C. Lunardini, President of Southern Consultants Inc., sent a certified letter to the Board of Commissioners of the Pearlington Water and Sewer District asking it to rescind their vote of May 27.

The Echo contacted Lunardini by telephone, and he confirmed he sent the letter, but denied he asked the state police to look into the matter.

Although Hancock County Supervisor Rocky Pullman appointed all five of the present Commissioners, and attends most of the meetings, he has distanced himself from the fracas. He said he did meet Stieffel once at a meeting called at Stennis by Ron Magee, NASA's environmental officer.

Pullman said he was disappointed over the split on the board, and he was appreciative of the work and long hours put in by Adkinson and Baxter. He said he would leave it up to the remaining Commissioners to recommend two new members to replace the two who have resigned.

Diamondhead volunteers

Chapman — Three wins

"There's defense involved," he said. "The first leg you usually try and go fast and then see what your position is."

Depending on position, a skipper may try and help a teammate by trying to slow down an opponent's boat to let a teammate's boat pass.

Assigning skippers and crews also takes some consideration since a person can only skipper once, and a lot depends on water and wind conditions.

"When the skipper isn't as strong, you try to have a really good crew," said Chamberlain, explaining he was lucky that BWYC has so many people who come out and sail.

"I was flip-flopping around on who was going to sail which race," he said, "but every race we were strong."

"It's a lot of fun because when you go in depth you have some people who haven't sailed in a while and then they get back into it."

Skippers for the regatta were Wayne Murphy, Chapman, Sanders Kane, Clinton Edwards, Judy Reeves, Sarah Taylor, Marcus Egan, Kippy Chamberlain, Bishop Stieffel, Charlie Merrigan, Alan Uram and Chamberlain. Other team members were Benvenuti, Jennifer Adams, Emily Taylor, Patrick Martinez and Richard Heasler.

Although only 22, it was the fourth year as captain for Chamberlain, who laughed and said he has sailed "forever."

All regattas are a good time, but the team factor and the competition along the Coast make this one a little special, Chamberlain said grinning.

"This is bragging rights."

Celebrate — Silver anniversary

This family of priests has influenced thousands of lives, including the well-known and respected cousin of Father Pete, the late Father Patrick Quinn, missionary to Saltillo, Mexico.

Each church in the Bay St. Louis community is proud of their minister. They offer respect and often their love. Father Pete receives no less from the hundreds of parishioners of Our Lady of the Gulf. While some people slide out the side door following Sunday Mass, most parishioners wait to shake his hand, to receive the benefit of his smile, kind words and blessing.

Father Pete's parents, James and Mary Mockler, saw to it that Father Pete received a solid education in Ireland, including his years at St. Patrick's College, Carlow. After taking his vows and coming to the United States, Father Pete continued his education at Loyola University, New Orleans and JCTE, North American College in Rome.

Bay St. Louis has not had the exclusive benefits of Father Pete's ministry, but benefited from his time spent with the parishioners of St. John the Evangelist, Gulfport, Sacred Heart Parish, Pascagoula, and St. Ann's Parish, Lizana. However, when he arrived in February, 1988, we all knew that he had found the best home, Bay St. Louis.

His mother visits occasionally to the United States, but finds the Mississippi weather much too hot, so Father Pete and his brother, Father Patrick Mockler, also a priest in the Diocese of Biloxi, return home annually to visit with their mother and the remaining members of the Mockler and extended family in Ireland. But this year Mrs. Mockler and other family members are visiting to celebrate this momentous occasion in the life of Father Pete.

It may take a while to understand Father Pete's humor, but it takes no time at all to appreciate his quick mind, his fast analysis of a situation and ability to take care of problems.

His counsel is spiritual, wise, caring and practical. Father Pete is a source of strength in times of personal crisis. There is no doubt where he stands on church issues or local interests.

He is a gifted leader. As a gifted administrator of the assets of Our Lady of the Gulf, he balances the demands of the modern priest in theological issues, education, counseling, management and finances.

Parishioner and Bay Catholic Elementary teacher Connie Heitzmann said, "Father Pete has the special ability to help a person reach full potential as a person. To help someone fulfill their spiritual destiny is his ministry. He has been so creative in developing our parish spiritually, increasing the participation of lay ministers, helping the Old family become strong enough to enjoy their faith. We celebrate his anniversary with love and respect and are so glad that Father Pete is our priest."

News from McLeod

BY ROLAND LEE

It's that time of the year again when school is out and kids need to be outside enjoying the summer. And, our area kids have already found the delight of an outing at beautiful McLeod Water Park.

Even though it's a bit hot, we invite parents to bring the kids out for a field trip through the park. Hike the nature trails. Come out to fish, canoe or camp out overnight or just come the day for a picnic.

Fishing has been good despite the hot weather. Trey Lee had a can of worms and a rod and reel, and hauled in two nice size cats recently. Trey's my grandson and comes here often. Most of the time, you can see him on the river bank fishing or riding his bike.

We have increased to 70 our RV sites with water and electric connections, and hope to add a few more before the big, coming Fourth of July weekend.

We advise everyone to make reservations early for the RV sites, and for overnight camping in the group or primitive areas. Reservation payment must be received seven days in advance of your visit, and if you're reserving for a three-day holiday, you must reserve all three days.

The number to call is 228/467-1894.

The "WORD" for the Week

Dennis J. Prutow, Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

What is Father's Day? It is a day in which you can honor your dad or the dad in your household in special ways. Most dad's receive a tie or another gift as a way of saying, "Thanks for just being you."

But why should Father's Day be only one day a year? Shouldn't families always be about the business of honoring the moms and dads in their midst? At least God would have it so. He gives familiar instruction in the Bible in the form of what we traditionally call the Fifth Commandment.

"Honor your father and your mother, that your days may be prolonged in the land which the Lord your God gives you" (Exodus 20:12). The New Testament of the Bible picks up this same theme. "Honor your father and mother (which is the first commandment with a promise)" (Ephesians 6:2).

Fathers and families

And what is the promise? The old Westminster Shorter Catechism says this "is a promise of long life and prosperity (as far as it shall serve for God's glory and their own good) to all such as keep this commandment." On the negative side, the breakdown of families and large teenage suicide rates argue in favor of keeping the Fifth Commandment. On the positive side, Father's Day is an annual reminder of the Fifth Commandment and the promise attached to it.

Bay St. Louis church commits to working on behalf of children

Main Street United Methodist Church was honored for its commitment to being involved in child advocacy June 3 at the Mississippi United Methodist Annual Conference.

The church recently completed three steps to become a new member of Congregations for Children, an ecumenical statewide child advocacy network.

To receive this honor the church had to send a representative to attend a child advocacy workshop, hold a Children's Sabbath, and organize a phone tree of people willing to call their legislators about children's issues.

Main Street United Methodist is among 51 churches that were recognized this year. Congregations for Children staff and the Mississippi United Methodist Bishop Marshall L. Meadors Jr. presented the church with a banner.

As a member, the church will receive the Congregations for Children newsletter, alerts, and other materials that will keep them aware of the state of Mississippi's children and give suggestions of things they can do to help children in their communities.

The church was represented at the presentation by Stacey Gorham and Barbara Lemon.

Congregations for Children began in 1993. The purpose of the organization is to promote preventative, cost-effective, non-punitive public policy in order to meet the needs of children living in poverty in Mississippi, to gather data and resources to educate Mississippians regarding child poverty, and to provide assistance and support to congregations building advocacy networks.

Main Street Methodist sets Bible School dates

"Come to the Storytelling Tree" is the theme of this year's Vacation Bible School at Main Street United Methodist Church, 162 Main Street in Bay St. Louis.

Classes for preschool (4 years old) through sixth grade will be held between 9 a.m. and noon July 6-10. All youths of the community are invited and urged to attend.

The director of the school, Pauline Conaway, said participants will hear some of the stories Jesus told and will learn what Jesus wants us to listen, follow, forgive, grow and love.

As a continuation of Jesus' teachings, all offerings and donations collected during this week will benefit Hope Haven.

Everyone is invited to pre-register Sunday, June 28 from 12:15-1:30 p.m. in the Multipurpose Building, 162 Main Street.

Individuals wishing to pre-register by phone or requiring transportation to and from Vacation Bible School may contact Louann at the church office at 467-4538 for details.

Steinaway is guest speaker at UMC session

Ann Steinaway, chairperson of Membership, Nurture and Outreach for the Mississippi Conference of the United Methodist Women, was guest speaker at a joint session of the Sunday School Department 11 a.m. worship service at Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis held recently.

Steinaway is also a certified lay speaker. In the short time Steinaway has been a resident of Mississippi, she has taken an active part of traveling the state and educating women and churches about how the United Methodist Women can develop local units, increase membership and continue to support the current membership.

The United Methodist Women's primary concerns are women and children. As an extension of this role, Steinaway has enlisted the members of the United Methodist Women in the Mississippi Conference to create baby blankets that can be used as "banners" for this year's conference in October.

After the conference, these baby blankets will be donated to shelters and other community agencies for distribution to families in need.

ST. ANN-ST. JOHN NEWS

I will refine them like silver and test them like gold. They will call on my name and I will answer them; I will say, they are my people, and they will say, 'The Lord is our God.' Zachariah 13:9

A life watered by tears and tragedy and suffering often becomes the most fertile soil for spiritual growth.

You intended to har me, but God intended it for good to accomplish what is now being done.

Genesis 50:20

St. Ann-St. John Vacation Bible School begins Monday, June 15 through Friday, June 19.

Classes will be 9 a.m.-noon for children 4 years old to the sixth grade.

There will be a $5 enrollment fee. If interested, contact the parish office at 467-4746.

St. Ann-St. John Parish has lots for sale in Clermont Harbor and Waveland. If anyone is interested or would like further information, check the bulletin board in back of the church for details or call the parish office at 467-4746.

I have heard it from the grape vine, we need your support again this year for our Seafood Jamboree in September. And though the ads campaign won't begin until next month, a rummage sale is planned for August.

We will not go into details of our need now, only that we will need workers!

Please call the parish office at 467-4746 or Lynn Lynn at 466-5227 if you can promise to help in any way.

The Sin of Omission

Periodically, it is a good thing for everyone to examine their conscience and to reflect on their faults and wrongdoings. The Bible tells us that we all have sinned and have come short of the glory of God. Calling to mind our shortcomings, and asking for God's forgiveness, are necessary in order to become a better person and to receive God's blessing. Although it usually is quite easy to remember the tangible wrongs that we have done, we often forget about the sin of neglecting to do the good things that we know we should do: God's Golden Rule, "to do unto others as we would want them to do unto us," involves our helping others whenever we are able. Being a good friend means getting involved, and the old adage that "actions speak louder than words," is good advice in helping us to avoid the sin of omission.

Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.
K.J.V. James 4:17

Seinfeld's 'Uncle Leo' to host Ugliest Tie Contest at Magic

As the insensitive and crude Uncle Leo on the hit television show Seinfeld, Len Lesser has achieved a level of recognition he never could have imagined. So much so that he was invited to host a promotion at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Lesser hosts Casino Magic's Ugliest Tie and Dad's Den Contests Wednesday, June 17. He will grant his devoted southern Seinfeld fans an autograph and photograph session from 6-6:45 p.m. in the Magic Entertainment Complex at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis.

The promotions are in honor of the upcoming Father's Day. Contestants entered in the free tie contest can win a seven-day cruise for two to the Caribbean.

The casino is encouraging families to dig in the back of their father's closets and find the ugliest or tackiest tie dear old dad ever wore. Then, bring dad and the tie to the casino and cheer him on because in addition to a judged competition, there will be a People's Choice Award.

On top of the Ugly Tie Contest, there is a Dad's Den contest in which "Uncle Leo" chooses three contestants to see who can sit the longest in a recliner in the casino's lobby.

The winner receives a seven-day Caribbean cruise for two. Participants must pre-register by June 16 for each contest by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5, ext. 8094 or by faxing local radio station LIVE 95FM at 228-868-0095.

In addition to Seinfeld, Lesser has been in over 30 feature films, 400 television shows and 100 plays, portraying an endless variety of villains as well as the character and comedy rules he's made memorable over the last 10 years.

Len Lesser, "Uncle Leo"

His motion picture credits include The Outlaw Josey Wales, Take This Job and Shove It, The Main Event, Death Hunt, Papillon, Birdman of Alcatraz and Kelly's Heroes.

He has guest-starred in countless television shows including Mad About You, Caroline in the City, Everybody Loves Raymond, The John Larroquette Show, Thirty Something, Falcon Crest, Bonanza, Quincy, Kojak, Get Smart and The Monkees.

Lesser's West Coast stage work includes Captain Brassbound's Conversion at the Ah-manson Theater, The Moths at the Mark Taper Forum, and The World of Ray Bradbury and The Wonderful Ice Cream Suit at the Cornet Theater.

He received a Drama-Logue award for his performance as Morris Lipkind, the gentle delicatessen store owner, in Ira Levin's Play Centorial.

His portrayal as Parmigian, the fiery Armenian dying of cancer, in Ron Ribman's masterpiece Cold Storage garnered him both a Drama-Logue Award and a L.A. Weekly Nomination for best performance.

For information on the Ugliest Tie and Dad's Den Contests, call 1-800-5-MAGIC-5, ext. 8094.

Free parking offered to Aquarium guests

Two of the state's top tourist attractions have a really cool offer for visitors this summer. The Aquarium of the Americas and Entergy IMAX Theatre on the New Orleans riverfront are offering free parking for visitors.

The aquarium features the aquatic life of the North and South American continents, including the popular walk-through Caribbean Reef exhibit and huge Gulf of Mexico exhibit with its enormous sharks, tarpon and sea turtles.

The newest exhibit at the Aquarium is "Deep Sea Discoveries," an interactive look at exploration of the deep sea, and some of the technology used to travel into that unexplored part of our planet. "Deep Sea Discoveries" will be at the Aquarium for a limited time only.

Next door at the Entergy IMAX Theatre, visitors can take a trip to "Alaska" or experience the thrill of climbing to the top of the world in the blockbuster new IMAX film, "Everest." Hailed as the best IMAX film ever, "Everest" is the triumphant story of a group of climbers as they climb the tallest mountain in the world.

Among them, a young woman from Spain trying to be the first woman from her country to climb the mountain, and a young man seeking to follow the footsteps of his famous father who'd climbed the mountain years before.

Visitors can park free for three hours at the specially marked Convention Center Boulevard parking lots at the New Orleans Hilton Riverside by showing their ticket stub from either the Aquarium of the Americas or Entergy IMAX Theatre.

This special parking offer is valid from June 1-Sept. 7 only. Advance tickets to the Aquarium and Entergy IMAX Theatre are available by calling 1-800-774-7394 or 581-IMAX.

The road to safe summer vacations begins at home

To minimize worries about your children's safety during summer vacation events, teach them precautions before leaving home.

Vacations are more enjoyable when a family establishes rules for safety in advance, observes child and family development specialist Louise Davis at Mississippi State University.

For parents, she provides several guidelines to consider when planning to visit crowded public locations:

Keep children under 12 with you.

This protects them and helps build their confidence.

Discourage personalized clothing.

Strangers who can call a child by name may give the child a false sense of security. (Names and addresses should be written on the inside tag of clothing with a laundry marker.)

Know what each child is wearing.

Dress them in bright colors and, when possible, color-code the entire family for easier identification.

Identify prominent locations at the place visited.

Call special attention to the lost-and-found area.

Designate periodic meeting times and places.

Even if children are old enough to be on their own, arrange to meet once an hour at a convenient prominent location.

Constantly stress safety.

Reinforces safety messages, whether on a long trip to distant locations or a quick trip to local stores.
